Capability Statement

Offshore Staff Augmentation

Business Challenges

Skilled people are the heart of any IT organization and yet, this talent can also be one of the costliest components of overall TCO. Ensuring necessary technical and niche skills are available for a critical project can also mean having the same resources idle during less demanding times. In other cases, the expertise to design, develop, test, and roll out new business tools doesn't exist in-house and can be difficult or costly to develop internally. Companies are faced with tough decisions when it comes to forecasting their resource needs accurately while developing and maintaining the right team to meet their business goals. While offshore sourcing has proven itself effective for many companies, offshore engagements have typically been long-term, high-volume, and/or project-based. Global understands that resource needs are frequently smaller in scale or duration, but still critical to the success of the engagement. Kforce Global, while fully capable of meeting more traditional project-based requirements, also stands ready to assist with staff augmentation services. This service can be provided offshore at considerable savings relative to utilizing the same skills/resources onshore.

Kforce Global Solution

Global has an established, experienced team ready to be deployed quickly to support your strategic and tactical business needs. We offer staff augmentation services of 2 or more resources across a wide variety of skill sets, both technical and functional. Global purposefully maintains a bench of resources to be able to rapidly respond to requirements and has a dedicated recruiting team to secure additional team members as needed. For our larger augmentation engagements, we have developed sophisticated tools to plan and track work and resources, allowing us to forecast resource requirements in advance and ensure skill coverage and knowledge transfer is maintained. Whatever your staff augmentation requirements, Global is the partner with a solution.

Value

Global delivers value through our staff augmentation services in a variety of ways:

- Cost Reduction – Based on a comparison across a wide variety of roles, offshore rates typically offer savings of 50 - 75% when compared to those onshore. This allows clients a mechanism to temporarily augment their resource base without breaking their budget.
- Skills – With extensive in-house expertise across technical and functional areas and access to a Philippine graduate pool of 450,000 university graduates/year through our full-time in-house recruiting team, Global can supply expertise in virtually any application, product, or function to meet your needs.
- Flexibility – Global facilities in Manila are open 24/7, so resources working on your projects can be available during your work day or around the clock as required. Additionally, the team size can flex up and down depending on your needs so no one is idle and you are never without resources focused on your key business priorities.
